REMARKS

Report describes the change of attitude towards Subject who "until only a short time ago...was the indisputable head of the Iron Guard and considered as such by the Spaniards, especially the Falange. who were very generous with their hospitality when he decided to change his residence from France to Spain." Report states that disfavor due to Subject's intimate relations, in France, with the wife of an Iron Guardist which resulted in her having a child. There has been a split in the Guard. One faction, which is getting increasingly larger, now no longer considers Subject as its chief and has replaced him by his collaborator ex-minister Vasile IASINSCU (qv). Subject's conduct has also caused an unpleasant impression among his Spanish admirers and has diminished the friendly feelings he used to enjoy in the Falange.

Source reported in July '55 (OIR-16190) that Subject was allegedly living at Fregene, Italy in Yvonne MENCHINELLI's villa. Source endeavored to confirm Subject's being in Italy, but although rumors in emigre circles were to the latter effect, no confirmation could be made. MENCHINELLI positively affirmed that Subject did not stay in her villa during the summer.
